To Whom It May Concern
Re: Talia Louay Gazzaz
Date of Birth: 08 August 2005

I am pleased to recommend Talia Gazzaz, a passionate and diligent student, to your undergraduate programme. I have taught Talia for a year and a half in my Business Management course for the American Diploma Programme.

Talia is an organized student who submits her work on time and neatly done. She understands the business concepts extensively and connects them to real world situations. Talia is a good communicator with good presentation skills. She also displays leadership skills, which is prevalent in group activities conducted in class, where she gives clear instructions and gets tasks done punctually. Also, she guides and leads her group in class discussions and has good collaboration skills. She is a compassionate student who is there to help everyone before herself.

Talia is innovative and thinks creatively. She is passionate about culinary, arts and physical education. Culinary helps her explore the distinguished flavors of each country's food. Her interest in Arts comes from the fact that she can express her feelings through painting, and she considers it a therapy. Physical education helps Talia with her energy levels and to remain fit.

Outside school, she is active in charity work, she helped in preparing food packets for Ramadan in an organisation named "Food for poor people" and organised and donated her clothes to help others. She finds a sense of satisfaction in doing these things.

Talia's ambition and leadership skills will allow her to make an outstanding contribution to any undergraduate program she is applying for. It is for these reasons, she comes highly recommended to your institution.
