

04 December 2022

Dear Sir/Madam,

I am writing this letter in support of Abeer Aldajani's application for the Master of Laws programme at King's College London for the academic year 2023/2024.

I am the founding partner of Thamer Althobaity and Dafer Alsubaie Law Firm – a boutique law firm based in Jeddah which advises international clients on both transactional and representative matters. I have known and worked with Abeer since July 2018. Initially, Abeer worked with at our Firm as a summer intern in 2018 and 2019. In June 2021, she joined the firm as full-time trainee lawyer right after she graduated as top of her class from one of the best all girl's universities in Saudi Arabia.

Since joining our firm, Abeer has worked and advised on a variety of corporate transactions, as well as on contentious matters such as government and corporate investigations. She has displayed superb personal and professional qualities during this time.

Abeer's analytical skills are strong. Her attention to detail is refined. Her legal research is rigorous. Her intellectual curiosity is seemingly insatiable. She is an eager learner with the ability to grasp new concepts quickly and apply these to her work efficiently. On several occasions, she proactively took leadership of research and drafting tasks, and the quality of her work product quickly earned her a level of responsibility with which only senior associates ordinarily would be entrusted.

I regard Abeer as a singularly gifted 'legal mind', with a very promising career ahead of her.

Abeer's decision to pursue her studies speaks to her ambition and determination as an individual. I have no doubt that she will benefit greatly from the experience and knowledge that she will gain from this degree programme. I wholeheartedly and unreservedly support her application.

Yours faithfully

Dafer Alsubaie
