

Statement of purpose - Master's degree in Critical Care- Queen Mary University of London

I'm very excited to send this letter to you about my motivation to study for a master's degree in Critical care at Queen Mary University of London. I think that it's going to be an amazing chance and an unforgettable academic experience.

I'm convinced that when we talk about a country that is recognized as well as globally known for its historical and reputable universities, the United Kingdom is going to be the one. It's a country that's offering the best educational quality for international students from all over the world and supporting them in achieving their goals.

I believe that Critical care is one of the noblest healthcare fields in the world. It represents compassion, saving lives, helping, and caring. Not to mention the job satisfaction that the healthcare provider receives from seeing an ill person recovering. I believe that nothing is greater than relieving the pain of others or giving them positive healthcare support and physical caring. I also believe that the Critical care role in society is one of the most important roles in the healthcare field.

Working in the Critical care field means that I will be highly involved in collaborating with different doctors and many medical staff members to provide high-quality patient care. I will also be involved in healthcare research, family healthcare, community health, and specialty services to individuals. This field has become a global demand, especially during this COVID-19 pandemic that the world is challenging currently. Depending on that, I believe that it's our responsibility to do our best to help and give all the effort we can. I look forward to creating that amazing career path related to this field and hopefully creating effective solutions to improve the healthcare field in my country.

I'm 100% confident that as an international student I will be very happy to be at Queen Mary University of London campus, to be surrounded by supportive professors, and to be able to try modern as well as professional methods of research. Studying at this university will help me find many professional opportunities, and I am confident that studying at this university will certainly change my life and put me in the right direction towards a brighter future.

With many thanks,

Nasser Albaqami,