

Law has appeared centuries ago in ancient cultures as it was mentioned by various great philosophers and thinkers. First, I would like to introduce myself to you, I am Sara Aljahdali, a newly high school graduate who is looking forward to study abroad. I am applying at King's College London to obtain my bachelor degree in Law studies. Second, the reason why I choose King's College London is because I have explored my options by searching online, looking at the reviews, and asking those who studied the same major and I was advised that no better place offering a Law studies program better than King's College London. Further, this shows that the university has a great reputation in which it can provide me with the knowledge I seek along with the experience needed for the Law and legal field.

Another question you might ask is why am I choosing this major? Simply, because I believe in myself, also I believe I have strong potential and abilities to withstand all the prejudiced accusations against innocent people and will defend their rights and abiding by the laws. Furthermore, a degree in law will aid me in various ways in the future, for instance, I am leaning more towards a political career path and by having a law degree, I will be able to achieve my dream of being a successful lawyer or diplomat. I choose Law studies because I know it will help me attain my personal goals in becoming a successful leader. I have had this passion and interest ever since I was a child, and today I stand here, one step away from making my dream a living reality with all hope to succeed and enjoy the beautiful educational journey.

In addition, knowing what I wanted to major in since I was a child has helped me establish and develop my personality along with the skills needed for this field. For example, I have developed my communication skills in writing and researching as well as in public speaking and practiced presentation skills. Also, since social media plays a major role in our lives today, I have developed the right way of using social media and how to define my audience and understand them. Furthermore, some other skills I have been working on to develop are problem solving, time management, discipline, and crisis management. In my personal opinion, I believe that the field of law is noble yet should be handled meticulously due to the effect it has on people's lives. Therefore, certain skills need to be acquired and I trust that King's College London is the right place for me to acquire these skills and knowledge.

I am a confident, ambitious, hardworking, and a self-independent person who is always looking forward to becoming the best version of herself. I believe that knowledge is the key to success as well as the right use of this knowledge is success itself. I am full of hope that you will take my application to obtain my bachelor degree in Law studies at your respected institution into consideration. I will be delighted and honored to be taught by the professional faculty at your respected university.

Sincerely,
Sara Aljahdali
