

Allow me to begin my statement of purpose by introducing myself to you. My name is Maryam Khayyat. I am applying to study at one of the prestigious institutions around the world, King's College London. Throughout the past two years, I have grown an interest in the field of finance. Therefore, I decided to pursue my undergraduate studies in such a field. My passion led me to explore the field of finance through reading and research. I found that it is a vital component of every organizational body. So, having a successful finance system leads to achieving the organization's desired goals and outcomes. Now, I would like to turn this passion I grew for finance into a profession and profound career.

I chose to receive my foundation at King's College London not just for its renowned reputation but for the excellent undergraduate program offered in Finance. I am sure that King's is the place that will lead me to achieve my goals whether it was about gaining advanced academic knowledge or acquiring professional skills in the field of Finance. The in-class theoretical knowledge and the real-world practical training at King's will ensure an exceptional learning experience. Nevertheless, studying abroad will help me build a stronger personality both personally and professionally by interacting with students from different cultural backgrounds and perspectives.

I believe that the Finance program matches not only my interest but also my love for numbers. During school, I have always excelled in mathematics, algebra, and statistics because I enjoyed working with numbers. I believe it keeps my blood running and thrills me. Solving mathematical problems follows a specific process that I believe our minds follow unintentionally. The process starts with first reading, understanding, and identifying the problem, then thinking of a plan to solve the problem, and finally solving it. At King's, I would like to acquire the advanced, professional knowledge and skills needed to manage capital and financially evaluate assets and liabilities. Nevertheless, I am excited to work in a wide range of sectors within the field of finance including investment, banking, auditing, financial management, and consulting.

I am a highly ambitious and intelligent individual. I lived my whole life in Saudi Arabia, Jeddah City. I have constantly volunteered in school charity events and participated in various community service roles and events to help orphans and those in need. Cooking and drawing are some of the hobbies which I do during my free time. Mathematics and English language are the subjects that I have always enjoyed studying at school. My father inspires me to be a hard worker and teaches me everything I do not understand in life. Throughout my high school years, I have developed good statistical and mathematical skills besides other language skills. Now, I am excited to further develop my knowledge and skills by studying at King's College London. I am confident there is no better place than King's to have the educational experience I aspire for in the field of Finance.

Sincerely,

Maryam
