

To whom it may concern

I had a pleasure of teaching and getting to know Abdulsalam Jazi Alkhaibari in the academic year 2016/2017 in The Language Centre at Manchester Metropolitan University, where he was studying the English for University Study programme.

As the co-ordinator of the programme, I had an opportunity to both teach and mentor Abdulsalam, and I can state without any reservations that in many ways he was an outstanding student; certainly all the tutors were impressed with his enthusiastic, active approach to everything he was involved with and the progress he had displayed between January and June 2017.

I should also point out that Abdulsalam is very open and eager to work with students from other countries; he particularly enjoyed group tasks but often showed initiative when involved in small-scale research activities. I think he is an excellent candidate for an undergraduate programme and I have no hesitation in recommending Abdulsalam to you.

Yours faithfully,
