Dear Sara Rashed S,

It is my pleasure to offer you conditional admission to Arizona State University. Conditional admission means that you have the academic skills and abilities to be successful at ASU, but you do not meet the English proficiency requirement.

Conditional admission will allow you to improve your English before beginning your first year at ASU. Your conditional admission offer will expire in three semesters. Before your offer expires, you must fulfill the English requirement by doing one of the following

ASU requires a passing score on the TOEFL, IELTS, PTE or Duolingo English test. Learn more about the requirements at asu.edu/ug/english-proficiency. A passing score will provide you full admission to ASU.

Please note: Certain majors have higher English proficiency requirements. For more information on these requirements, please visit asu.edu/degreesearch.

Through Global Launch's in-person and online English language courses, you will receive language training and academic preparation to succeed in the American university environment. Learn more about Global Launch at globallaunch.asu.edu/learn-english.

If you complete the Advanced 2 level of the in-person Intensive English Program or the English for Undergraduate Admission online course, you will not be required to take the TOEFL, IELTS, PTE or Duolingo English test to attend ASU full time.

See detailed testing requirements and other ways to achieve English proficiency at asu.edu/ug/english-proficiency. If you have questions regarding conditional admission, please contact the international admission team at asuinternational@asu.edu.

We look forward to welcoming you to ASU.

Sincerely,

Matthew R. López
